Description:

The Wild Software Meta-systems comes in two sets of files. Both sets begin with the letters WILDS followed by a number followed by a letter. The number is the file number in the series. The letter refers to either the printable version marked A or the version formatted for reading on screen marked B. The two sets of files are not parallel.

The contents of the two series are as follows.

WILDS00A.pdf to WILDS16A.pdf is printable.

WILDS00B.pdf to WILDS17B.pdf is formatted for readability.

The files are available on the dialog.net system which is sporadically connected to the net. Reach the system by ftp to dialog.net. To get access you must telnet first to the dialog.net WEB-BBS and register. The dialognet homepage is normally available when the BBS is not so you can find out about current status at the URL http://server.snni.com:80/~palmer/dialognet.html.

This ZIP files contain the Adobe Acrobat PDF formatted book called WILD SOFTWARE META-SYSTEMS by Kent D. Palmer, Ph.D.

You can get an Adobe Acrobat reader from http://www.adobe.com.

This book is about the philosophy underlying software engineering, software design meta-methodology, and the future of software process.
The book is copyrighted and all rights are reserved. No rights to this book have been given up by it's release in an electronic form.
Permission is given to download and view the book by an individual. But no one may store the book in a publicly accessible electronic forum of any kind without the express permission of the author. Portions of the book are copyrighted by others. Refer to those others concerning the exercise of their rights.

The book may not be sold, traded or otherwise distributed for profit. The book is being distributed for review purposes only. Please send your comments to the author. You can use the notes function of Acrobat to make notes and then send the notes file to the author.

The book consists of sixteen Adobe Acrobat files named WILDSnnB.PDF which have been formatted to optimize viewing using the Acrobat reader. Load file WILDS00B.PDF first and use the hotlinks to move through the book. Many of these hotlinks are invisible until you place the hand cursor over them.
A few hotlinks are rendered visible with colored dotted lines. Some will invoke Netscape to connect to websites.

For the latest version use the World Wide Web to access Apeiron Publishing at URL http://server.snni.com:80/~palmer/apeiron.html Normally the book may be accessed at URL ftp://ftp.dialog.net. You must first register as a guest in the DialogNet BBS. Telnet to the BBS and set up an account, then ftp to the file system. You will find the latest version of Wildsoft.zip under the /resources/apeiron directory.

You can also try ftp://ftp.netcom.com/pub/th/thinknet

I hope you find the book interesting. Let me know what you think of it.
